

The APPA grant I received was used to pay for my attendance at the 2014 ACEL conference held in Melbourne at the beginning of October.

Having my registration covered allowed us to have our two DPs also attend the conference.

We attended a range of different breakout sessions which allowed us to share information / ideas gained. Sharing an apartment for the duration of the conference meant we could sit together and discuss key note speakers and application of their ideas in our school.

We were particularly interested in the work of developmental molecular biologist, Dr John Medina in integrating the science of learning with the practice of learning.

I would like to thank APPA for the grant covering my registration at this event
